

Declares Rock 'n' Roll Is Nothing New

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—From a fellow who should know, comes the proposition that rock 'n' roll is neither corrupting nor new.

The source is Felix Domino, whose free-wheeling, hard-bouncing records have sold in the millions. He also made money by being the first to record the "Rock 'n' Roll" sound.

"We've only had two hits," he said. "We've only had two hits, and both were caused by adults."

One was in San Jose, where they packed too many people into the hall. The kids were noisy, but a lot of the grownups were booing. Somebody threw a bottle on the floor and then the cops did. Somebody called the cops.

"The same thing" happened at the naval base in Newport. "Somebody threw a bottle and the trouble started. The music had nothing to do with it."

"When we play to an audience of kids, they don't go wild. They just clap their hands to the beat and bounce a little and enjoy themselves."

He added that rock 'n' roll, had gotten a bad name with adults because of the "wild" and "suggestive" movements. "I don't think they're doing it so much any more," he said. "I never would use dirty language. I don't use any more."

He said he just played the piano of a "sing and clap my hands" record. "It's like a dance," he said. "The name, the late-Felix Domino, for whose film biography he has been making a movie, is set in the New Orleans way who made good in a big way, but it didn't happen overnight."

"I'm playing the same music I've been playing for 15 to 20 years," he said. "I've been playing the same old New Orleans 'beat' music. I've always played 'beat' music. Why did it become so popular? It's a dance."

"I think it's because the young kids got tired of the old bands," he said. "The bands were going in, in for bebop, and you can't dance to that. It ain't got a beat."

"Rock 'n' roll has been heard of since the 1920s," he said. "Americans saved more than 10 billion dollars in 1955."

The most important thing about the revolt in Hungary is the ultimate effect it is going to have on the hearts and minds of Russians.

There's no point in expecting quick results. But when the fact finally sinks home among Soviet army men that it is they who have played the Cossack, shot down workers peacefully demonstrating, and served with their guns the oppressors of the peoples, big things will perhaps begin to happen.

Russians have had their consciences and idealism systematically dulled and corrupted by the Soviet government for many years. It takes a lot to arouse them. But one thing they still believe in is the Russian Revolution. They believe in it passionately. Though they are afraid at times their government, they still think of it as representing the working class, the proletariat.

But this morning near Budapest there are Soviet soldiers who are awakening with the memory in their minds of Hungary. They are they shot down yesterday, of Hungarian workers they may be ordered to shoot down today.

Admittedly most of these Russian soldiers are not immediately concerned with the revolt. They can conduct themselves so as to save their necks and thus survive until the battle is over.

But some of these Russians must realize that when they pull the triggers on their automatic weapons to shoot down the Hungarians they are at the same time humiliating the Soviet Union and its integrity as one of the Russian Revolution.

The present Soviet government's only claim to the right to rule is that it represents the working class, in the Soviet Union and outside it.

And it is as sure as the sun will rise tomorrow that on the day the Russians become convinced that their government does not represent the working class they will throw out that government despite all its secret police, despite its propaganda apparatus, despite everything.

And it may well be that the day is not far off when Russian soldiers will come to realize that the working class, the Russian workers in East Berlin, in Tbilisi, in Yekaterinburg, in Moscow, in Leningrad, in the most of all.

The record is there for all to see. The Russian soldiers have shot down workers in East Berlin, in Tbilisi, in Yekaterinburg, in Moscow, in Leningrad, in the most of all.

Nov. 6 Ballot Proposals —

Three Favorable Votes: For Legal Liquor Sale; Parking Meters; & 3-Mill Road Tax

(5th Editorial of a Series)

In yesterday's edition The Star's editor discussed the November 6 ballot proposals through Initiative Act No. 1 (Workmen's Compensation), and, since Initiative Act No. 2 (Public Assignment) was covered in a still earlier edition, today's editorial therefore covers the final three questions on the ballot. The official ballot presents these not as bills or ordinances but as simple and direct questions. You vote for or against parking meters, for or against legal sale of liquor and beer, for or against road tax.

The proposition appears on the official ballot as: For, or Against, Coin Collecting Meters.

The Star thinks you should vote for the meters. Citizens circulated a petition so the people might have a chance to vote the parking meters out if desired. Voters should remember, however, that back in non-meter days it was impossible to find a parking place in downtown Hope—all the space was taken by downtown workers; the shoppers didn't have a chance.

There is public irritation with or without meters. Without meters, you can't find a place to park. With meters, you sometimes are fined for parking longer than your money permits. I've paid as many fines as anyone.

Nevertheless, don't let your private "beef" mislead you. Vote for the coin-collecting meters.

Sale of Intoxicating Liquor

The Hempstead county local option question appears on the official ballot as: For, or Against, the Manufacture or Sale of Intoxicating Liquor.

With the repeal of national prohibition under the first administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Arkansas and all its counties automatically reverted to a "wet" status. In 1936 H. Spotted County "dry" circulated a petition and called a local option election. This newspaper fought them; the county stayed "wet" and remained so for 10 years.

In 1946 the "drys" made a new attempt, and that year was successful in throwing out the package stores and legal sale of liquor and beer. We fought the "drys" just as hard in 1946 as we did in 1936, but were overwhelmed. As a matter of fact, the "wet" vote in 1946 equaled or exceeded the total vote cast for both sides in 1936.

Now the "wets" have circulated a petition with which this newspaper has no connection and once more the liquor question appears on the ballot. It is proposed to legalize package-store sale of liquor and the general sale of beer.

As a matter of principle this newspaper always votes "wet"—and I shall do so again next Tuesday. In the 1936 local option campaign The Star stipulated it would accept advertising of beer but not of liquor, and lived up to its word. We make no such stipulation today. The 1946 "dry" victory showed such a stipulation was unimportant. The newspaper's feeling against hard-liquor advertising hasn't necessarily changed; we've simply not going to offer something that isn't appreciated.

On the liquor question The Star disregards everything the preachers say or write. To hear them talk you would think they were trying to help humanity—when, as a matter of fact, their proposal to continue statutory prohibition is nothing but a strong-arm "law" to put men in jail. When preachers talk about law, only law, don't listen. Nor did our Anglo-Saxon ancestors. They got so tired of the church and state monopoly in the Old Country that they pulled out and came over here.

In looking over our campaign editorials of 1936 and 1946 I realize there is little new to be said in the controversy between liquor regulation and liquor prohibition—except to give you the latest tax figures.

Prohibition, of course, is an expense—requiring diversion of tax money away from useful purposes to "en force" an unenforceable "law."

But the regulated legal sale of liquor and beer, which the public will accept as sound and just, produces an important part of the revenue supporting public schools and welfare agencies.

All liquor and beer taxes go into the State General Revenue Fund, which disperses about 50 per cent to the public schools and 14 per cent to welfare—a combined total of 64 per cent.

Last year the state's total alcoholic tax "take" was $6,782,202—approximately 10 per cent of the entire State General Revenue Fund.

You may wipe out all this on "moral" grounds—but how moral a man or woman are you if you wipe it out and fail to give the schools and the welfare agencies a replacement from some other tax?

Perhaps you feel we would be better off with a higher tax on bread and milk and clothing.

I don't.

I think people who can afford to buy whisky and beer ought to pay tax on these luxuries so that other folks who can afford only the necessities of life may have them as frugally as possible.

This is the sane and civilized view. I'll defend it against all comers.

County 3-Mill Road Tax

This question appears on the official ballot as: For, or Against, Road Tax.

No debate on this one. You've been voting for and paying this tax all your life. Vote now if you expect to have your county roads maintained as well as in the past.

Mine Disaster in Canada Takes Lives of 114

SPRINGHILL, Nova Scotia (AP)—The known death toll of a Springhill coal mine disaster mounted to 114 today and hope was for 118 men still trapped in tunnels more than a half mile below the surface.

Two of the known dead were rescue workers killed by coal gas after entering the mine to search for the missing men.

Gas and fallen rock hampered the rescue operations. In addition, a section of the shaft leading to the trapped men was to be sealed after a fire burning there, said Harold Gordon, a mining "corporation" executive.

The town still held a glimmer of hope that the trapped men had survived last night's explosion and gas. But veteran miners were not optimistic.

Rescue workers found four bodies during the night at the 3,400-foot level. They found a sign of life in the deep workings where the remains of 114 men were hospitalized.

The fumes hampered volunteer efforts to get to the men entombed in gas-filled shafts. If efforts fail, it will be Canada's worst mine disaster in 40 years.

"There is still hope — though it may only be a faint hope — that the men are still alive," said mine manager George Caldwell.

Hundreds of relatives, many of them sobbing, stood around the mine entrance, waiting for word of the fate of their loved ones. Trucks loaded with supplies and ambulances were lined up outside the mine entrance. Planes helped bring in doctors and supplies and cars used their headlights to illuminate the dark, winding tunnels.

The explosion was believed caused by coal dust.

Three Favorable Votes: For Legal Liquor Sale; Parking Meters; & 3-Mill Road Tax

(5th Editorial of a Series)

In yesterday's edition The Star's editor discussed the November 6 ballot proposals through Initiative Act No. 1 (Workmen's Compensation), and, since Initiative Act No. 2 (Public Assignment) was covered in a still earlier edition, today's editorial therefore covers the final three questions on the ballot. The official ballot presents these not as bills or ordinances but as simple and direct questions. You vote for or against parking meters, for or against legal sale of liquor and beer, for or against road tax.

The proposition appears on the official ballot as: For, or Against, Coin Collecting Meters.

The Star thinks you should vote for the meters. Citizens circulated a petition so the people might have a chance to vote the parking meters out if desired. Voters should remember, however, that back in non-meter days it was impossible to find a parking place in downtown Hope—all the space was taken by downtown workers; the shoppers didn't have a chance.

The Star demanded meters as a common-sense regulation to bail us out of an impossible traffic situation, and the city finally installed them.

Sale of Intoxicating Liquor

The Hempstead county local option question appears on the official ballot as: For, or Against, the Manufacture or Sale of Intoxicating Liquor.

With the repeal of national prohibition under the first administration of President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Arkansas and all its counties automatically reverted to a "wet" status. In 1936 H. Now the "wets" have circulated a petition with which this newspaper has no connection and once more the local question appears on the ballot. It is proposed to legalize package-store sale of liquor and the general sale of beer.

As a matter of principle this newspaper always votes "wet"—and I shall do so again next Tuesday. In the 1936 local option campaign The Star stipulated it would accept advertising of beer but not of liquor, and lived up to its word. We make no such stipulation today. The 1946 "dry" victory showed such a stipulation was unimportant. The newspaper's feeling against hard-liquor advertising hasn't necessarily changed; we've simply not going to offer something that isn't appreciated.

On the liquor question The Star disregards everything the preachers say or write. To hear them talk you would think they were trying to help humanity—when, as a matter of fact, their proposal to continue statutory prohibition is nothing but a strong-arm "law" to put men in jail. When preachers talk about law, only law—don't listen. Nor did our Anglo-Saxon ancestors. They got so tired of the church and state monopoly in the Old Country that they pulled out and came over here.

In looking over our campaign editorials of 1936 and 1946 I realize there is little new to be said in the controversy between liquor regulation and liquor prohibition—except to give you the latest tax figures.

Prohibition, of course, is an expense—requiring diversion of tax money away from useful purposes to "en force" an unenforceable "law."

But the regulated legal sale of liquor and beer, which the public will accept as sound and just, produces an important part of the revenue supporting public schools and welfare agencies.

All liquor and beer taxes go into the State General Revenue Fund, which disperses about 50 per cent to the public schools and 14 per cent to welfare—a combined total of 64 per cent.

Last year the state's total alcoholic tax "take" was $6,782,202—approximately 10 per cent of the entire State General Revenue Fund.

You may wipe out all this on "moral" grounds—but how moral a man or woman are you if you wipe it out and fail to give the schools and the welfare agencies a replacement from some other tax?

Perhaps you feel we would be better off with a higher tax on bread and milk and clothing.

I don't.

I think people who can afford to buy whisky and beer ought to pay tax on these luxuries so that other folks who can afford only the necessities of life may have them as frugally as possible.

This is the sane and civilized view. I'll defend it against all comers.

Hope Star

Mine Disaster in Canada Takes Lives of 114

SPRINGHILL, Nova Scotia (AP)—The known death toll of a Springhill coal mine disaster mounted to 114 today and hope was for 118 men still trapped in tunnels more than a half mile below the surface.

Two of the known dead were rescue workers killed by coal gas after entering the mine to search for the missing men.

Gas and fallen rock hampered the rescue operations. In addition, a section of the shaft leading to the trapped men was to be sealed for a first burning there, said Harold Gordon, a mining "corporation" executive.

The town still held a glimmer of hope that the trapped men might survive last night's explosion and gas. But veteran miners were not optimistic.

Rescue workers found four bodies during the night at the 3,400-foot level. They found a sign of life in the deep workings where the remains of 114 men were hospitalized.

The fumes hampered volunteer efforts to get to the men entombed in gas-filled shafts. If efforts fail, it will be Canada's worst mine disaster in 40 years.

"There is still hope — though it may only be a faint hope — that the men are still alive," said mine manager George Caldwell.

Hundreds of relatives, many of them sobbing, stood around the blacked-out mine buildings.

Trucks loaded with first aid supplies and ambulances were rushing to the scene. Helicopters and planes helped bring in doctors and supplies and cars used their headlights to illuminate the nighttime runway at an airfield in neighboring Amherst, so the planes could land.

The explosion was believed caused by coal dust.

Faubus Denies Hi-way Flareup His Doing

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Gov. Orval Faubus says Jim Crain's flareup in a state highway Commission meeting Tuesday night was not his doing. He said he had no part in the "flaming" of the highway department.

Faubus denied the charge that he had ordered the highway department to "flame" the highway department. He said he had no part in the "flaming" of the highway department.

Gaza Strip Is in Control of Israeli Forces

LONDON (AP)—Israel today announced occupation of the entire Gaza Strip and claimed a victory in the Sinai Peninsula in ground action against Egyptian forces.

The French Defense Ministry said Egypt's air force had been "completely put out of fighting" and that the necessary conditions for the temporary occupation of the Suez Canal zone by Anglo-French forces "are now being realized."

The statement came 24 hours after the defense ministry announced two Anglo-French fleets were on their way to the Red Sea, and that the French fleet was "proceeding to the Red Sea."

Nixon Returns Campaign to Pennsylvania By JOE HALL EN ROUTE WITH HXNCH — President Nixon returned to Pennsylvania today for two days of intensive campaigning, most of it in a final bid for the 32 electoral votes of this key state. Democrats are claiming Pennsylvania for Adlai Stevenson, but Republicans dispute this. Nixon hopes to tip the scales with a dozen speeches. He also plans to plug hard for Sen. James Duff (R-Pa.), who is in a tough fight for re-election with former Mayor Joseph Clark of Philadelphia. The special train in New York City just left after one of his most strenuous days on the road — a three-day period during which he blew through coast to coast and made five speeches in two of the nation's greatest industrial centers. In Detroit he assailed Stevenson for injecting the New Deal into the campaign and also sought to win over voters of the New Deal by pointing out the mistakes of the New Deal. He also sought to win over voters of the New Deal by pointing out the mistakes of the New Deal. In New York's Harlem last night he told a predominantly Negro crowd that only the Republicans could follow through on civil rights pledges, because, he said, the Democrats were ducking the issue with Southerners holding the upper hand in Congress through senility. And in a speech at the huge Poughkeepsie Island hotel, he attacked the inside of his own party, the Democrats, for lack of vision and leadership in the peace, stability and prosperity of the country. the SPINTERED man

I opened the door and went in. I could see from the corner of my eye that Grish had done as I told him.
Oderbruch, Henri and the two Russi a officers were seated around the table which was turned with papers. Henri immediately pushed back his chair and moved like a cat away from the table.
"Henri," I said, "what about these accessories?"
He grinned and threw some thing. It came hurtling into my hands. It was a small, flat automatic.
"Do we give him one?" Henri asked, nodding toward Grish.
"Yes," I said.
Another gun arched across the room and Grish caught it. A third gun appeared in Henri's hand which he threw across the room.
Oderbruch looked at it as if he were about to have an apoplectic stroke.
The major's right hand had been steadily working its way toward the inside of his uniform jacket. "I wouldn't do that, Major," I said in Russian. "Not only is it dangerous to you, but I might miss you and kill the colonel general by mistake."
He stopped and I could tell that the colonel general approved of his decision.
"It's the American spy," Oderbruch said.
"Oderbruch is off his track," I said. "I am Lieutenant Grish. He is a famous Communist convert. My friend Henri is a more recent convert. We are now staging a new revolution."
"We have nothing to lose but our chains," Henri said happily.
The vague idea I'd had earlier was now blooming. "I really hate to do it, but I must ask the major and the colonel general to remove their uniforms."
"The major?" Oderbruch said. "An American crossing national borders and kidnapping people?"
"Nothing of the kind," I said. "There are two Germans and a Frenchman who deserted to the East, then changed their minds and went back. There is no American here at all — only a young lieutenant of the MVD who gets lost in the shuffle." I turned to Henri. "How did you turn up so opportunely?"
"It was nothing," he said with a casual indifference. With his left hand he whipped something from his pocket. "This morning's paper from West Berlin."
I could see the headline:
"Frenchman Takes New Drug to Reels"
"I got the message concerning the young man from Providence yesterday afternoon," Henri said. "Right away I put on my old uniform and slipped over here. I went to see the one who had sent the message. He told me where you probably were and gave me all the information you had told him about Oderbruch's drugs. I went back to West Berlin and applied my mind to the problem."
"I thought you looked a little different," I said.
"So last night, I got to the CIA office and I broke into a little office while I am there. So I punched him in the nose and made off. I went directly from my office to the MVD address here on Unter Linden I arrived there at 8 o'clock. And I already knew that I was coming and what I had stolen from Farley's office. Somebody had called them."
I whistled. "So Lane has been the leak all along. Very pretty. Did Farley know what you were doing?"
"As of this moment they still think that I am the traitor."
By this time the two Russian generals, Grish put on the colonel general's uniform and I put on the major's. They weren't perfect fits, but they'd do.
We made the two Russians take off their undershirts. We used those to gag them and tie them to the table.
Oderbruch stood by, looking exceedingly unhappy throughout all this.
I searched him until I found the little metal case I'd said two nights before. I opened it and took out the eye dropper. It was almost full of the colorless liquid I poured water into a glass then I dropped a generous portion of it in edgewise into the water.
"For you," I said.
"You put in at least a triple dose," he said weakly.
"I know," I said. "You're going to drink this now, Oderbruch. Then the four of us are going to walk down out of here and get into your car. We'll still shoot you if you try to give a warning, but not to kill. Only where it will hurt you. With this big dose of isosergic acid diethylamide in you, even if you get to the cholorpromazine you'll still have to go through the madness you've been giving so many others. If you behave, as soon as we're out of the gate, I'll give you all the chlorpromazine you want."
"You don't have any."
"More than 200 tablets," I told him.

Four Children Killed by Auto

BRUSSELS, Wls. (AP)—Four children, out on a "trick or treat" Halloween excursion last night, were struck and killed by an auto and three others were injured as they crossed a highway in Door County.
The dead were Jane Rasmussen, 7, and Monica Miller, 8, all of Brussels, a tiny community in northeastern Wisconsin.
Hospitalized at Algoma Memorial Hospital are Denise Jandora, 10; Roger Miller, Jr., 6; and Marcia Miller, 8. Hospital authorities said their condition was not critical.
Police said the driver, Alphons Hilbert, 25, of Brussels, said he had just passed an oncoming car and could not stop in time.

THE YOUTH OF HOPE

We, the young people of Hope, Hempstead County, Arkansas, though we are not old enough to vote, are keenly interested in the local option election to be held on November 6, 1956. We feel that we ought to have a voice in this matter, for LIQUOR destroys youth! We appeal to the voters of Hempstead County to keep beer, whiskey, wine, etc. out of Hempstead County for our sake.

Nixon Returns Campaign to Pennsylvania

By JOE HALL
EN ROUTE WITH HXNCH — President Nixon returned to Pennsylvania today for two days of intensive campaigning, most of it in a final bid for the 32 electoral votes of this key state.
Democrats are claiming Pennsylvania for Adlai Stevenson, but Republicans dispute this. Nixon hopes to tip the scales with a dozen speeches. He also plans to plug hard for Sen. James Duff (R-Pa.), who is in a tough fight for re-election with former Mayor Joseph Clark, Philadelphia.
The special train in New York City last night after one of his most strenuous days on the road — a three-day period during which he blew through coast to coast and made five speeches in two of the nation's greatest industrial centers.
In Detroit he assailed Stevenson for injecting the New Enderbury into the campaign and also sought to win over voters of Pa-his hostilities and other rivalries with the assertion that re-election of President Eisenhower is the way to keep them behind the movement for liberation of Russian satellites.
In New York's Harlem last night he told a predominantly Negro crowd that only the "beatniks" could follow through on civil rights pledges, because, he said, the Democrats were ducking the issue with Southerners holding the upper hand in Congress throughout the country.
And in a speech at the huge Polaris Long Island stadium last night he urged the peace, stable cost of living and prosperity instead of the "beatnik" who has ruled the country.

Four Children Killed by Auto

BRUSSELS, Wis. (AP) — Four children, out on a "trick or treat" Halloween excursion last night, were struck and killed by an auto and three others were injured as they crossed a highway in Door County.
The dead were Jane Rasmussen, 7, and Monica Miller, 8, all of Brussels, a tiny community in northeastern Wisconsin.
Hospitalized at Algoma Memorial Hospital are Denise Jandora, 10; Roger Miller, Jr., 6; and Marcia Miller, 8. Hospital authorities said their condition was not critical.
Police said the driver, Alphonse Hilbert, 25, of Brussels, said he had just passed an oncoming car and could not stop in time.

THE YOUTH OF HOPE

We, the young people of Hope, Hempstead County, Arkansas, though we are not old enough to vote, are keenly interested in the local option election to be held on November 6, 1956. We feel that we ought to have a voice in this matter, for LIQUOR destroys youth! We appeal to the voters of Hempstead County to keep beer, whiskey, wine, etc. out of Hempstead County for our sake.

Nixon Returns Campaign to Pennsylvania

By JOE HALL

EN ROUTE WITH HXNCH — President Nixon returned to Pennsylvania today for two days of intensive campaigning, most of it in a hard fought bid for the 32 electoral votes of this key state.

Democrats are claiming Pennsylvania for Adlai Stevenson, but
Republicans dispute this. Nixon

Four Children Killed by Auto

BRUSSELS, Wis. (AP)—Four children, out on a "trick or treat" Halloween excursion last night, were struck and killed by an auto and three others were injured as they crossed a highway in Door County.

The dead were Jane Rasm, 8;
her brother, Neil, 11; Steven Jan-drin, 7, and Monica Miller, 8, all of Brussels, a tiny community in northeastern Wisconsin.

Hospitalized at Algoma Memorial Hospital are Denise Jandora, 10;
Roger Miller, Jr., 6; and Marcia Miller, 8. Hospital authorities said their condition was not critical.

Police said the driver, Alphonse Hilbert, 25, of Brussels, said he had just passed an oncoming car and could not stop in time.

The message concerning the young man from Providence yesterday afternoon, "Henri said
"Right away I put on my old coat and slipped over here. I went back to West Berlin and applied my mind to the problem."
Henri said he told me where you probably were and gave me all the information you had told him about Oederbruch's drugs I went back to West Berlin and applied my mind to the problem."
I thought you looked a little stunned," I said.

"So last night, I got to the CIA office and I broke into a little office while I am there. So I punch him in the nose and make off. I went directly from my office to the MVD offices here on Unter den Linden I arrived there at 8 o'clock. And I already they knew I was coming and what I had stolen from Farley's office. Somebody had called them."

I whistled "So Lane has been the look all along Very pretty.
Did Farley know what you were doing?"

"As of this moment they still think that I am the traitor." I said. "By this time the two Russian generals, Gruss put on the colonel general's uniform and I put on the major's. They weren't perfect fits, but they'd do."

We made the two Russians take off their undersweaters. We used those to gag them and tie them to the table.

Oederbruch stood by, looking exceedingly unhappy throughout all this.

I searched him until I found the little metal case I'd said two nights before. I opened it and took out the eye dropper. It was almost full of the colorist liquid.
I poured water into a glass
then I dropped a generous portion of it in already they knew I was coming and what I had stolen from Farley's office. Somebody had called them."

"For you," I said.

"You put in at least a triple dose," he said weakly.

"I know," I said. "You're going to drink this now, Oederbruch.
Then the four of us are going to walk down out of here and get into your car. We'll still shoot you if you try to give a warning, but not to kill. Only where it will hurt you. With this big dose of isergic acid diethylamide in you, even if you get to the cholorpor-azine you'll still have to go through the madness you've been giving so many others. If you behave, as soon as we're out of the gate, I'll give you all the chloropazine you want."

"You don't have any."

"More than 200 tablets," I told him.

Nixon Returns Campaign to Pennsylvania

By JOE HALL

EN ROUTE WITH HXNCH — President Nixon returned to Pennsylvania today for two days of intensive campaigning, most of it in a final bid for the 32 electoral votes of this key state.

Democrats are claiming Pennsylvania for Adlai Stevenson, but Republicans dispute this. Nixon hopes to tip the scales with a dozen speeches. He also plans to plug hard for Sen. James Duff (R-Pa.), who is in a tough fight for re-election with former Mayor Joseph Clark of Philadelphia.

The special train in New York City last night after one of his most strenuous days on the road — a three-day period during which he flew from coast to coast and made five speeches in two of the nation's greatest industrial centers.

In Detroit he assailed Stevenson for injecting the New Deal into the campaign and also sought to win over voters of the New Deal by pointing out the mistakes of the New Deal. He also sought to win over voters of the New Deal by pointing out the mistakes of the New Deal.

In New York's Harlem last night he told a predominantly Negro crowd that only the Republicans could follow through on civil rights pledges, because, he said, the Democrats were deadlocked on the issue with Southerners holding the upper hand in Congress through seniority.

And in a speech at the huge Poughkeepsie Island hotel, he attacked the inside of his own party, the Democrats, for their lack of leadership and for their failure to keep the peace, stability and prosperity in the country.

Whole Family.

Four Children Killed by Auto

BRUSSELS, Wis. (AP) — Four children, out on a "trick or treat" Halloween excursion last night, were struck and killed by an auto and three others were injured as they crossed a highway in Door County.

The dead were Jane Rasmussen, 7, and Monica Miller, 8, all of Brussels, a tiny community in northeastern Wisconsin. Hospitalized at Algoma Memorial Hospital are Denise Jandora, 10; Roger Miller, Jr., 6; and Marcia Miller, 8. Hospital authorities said their condition was not critical.

Police said the driver, Alphonse Hilbert, 25, of Brussels, said he had just passed an oncoming car and could not stop in time.

Czechs Protest
VIENNA — (UP) — Czechoslovakia has sent a new note to the United States protesting the release of propaganda balloons over Czech territory according to Prague radio.

The note threatened to protest to the U.N. general assembly if the actions continue. It said three persons were injured recently when one of the balloons exploded.

chummy with Oederbruch and got brought here," I said.

"By good luck, Martin Lane, our security officer — you will recall him — comes into the office while I am there. So I punch him in the nose and make off. I went directly from my office to the MVD offices here on Unter Linden I arrived there at 8 o'clock. And I already knew that I was coming and what I had stolen from Farley's office. Somebody had called them."

I whistled. "So Lane has been the leak all along. Very pretty. Did Farley know what you were doing?"

"As of this moment they still think that I am the traitor."

By this time the two Russian generals, Gruss put on the colonel's uniform and I put on the major's. They weren't perfect fits, but they'd do.

We made the two Russians take off their undershirts. We used those to gag them and tie them to the table.

Oederbruch stood by, looking exceedingly unhappy throughout all this.

I searched him until I found the little metal case I'd said two nights before. I opened it and took out the eye dropper. It was almost full of the colorist liquid. I poured the water into a glass. Then I dropped a generous portion of the drug into the water.

"For you," I said.

"You put in at least a triple dose," he said weakly.

"I know," I said. "You're going to drink this now, Oederbruch. Then the four of us are going to walk down out of here and get into your car. We'll still shoot you if you try to give a warning, but not to kill. Only where it will hurt you. With this big dose of isergate acid diethylamide in you, even if you get to the cholorpromazine you'll still have to go through the madness you've been giving so many others. If you behave, as soon as we're out of the gate, I'll give you all the chlorpromazine you want."

"You don't have any."

"More than 200 tablets," I told him.
